Grupo Argos advances ACE 1.0 with an approximately COP 39 billion share repurchase executed in line with prevailing market conditions

- Approximately COP 39 billion will be deployed at a price of COP 21.900 per common share and COP 16.500 per preferred share, as a result of the share repurchase offer conducted through the Independent Mechanism of the Colombian Stock Exchange, announced on August 27.
- The outcome reflects Grupo Argos' disciplined approach to capital allocation, consistent with its objective of executing repurchases under prevailing market conditions.

As part of the ACE 1.0, Argos Converge Effort, program, Grupo Argos advances to the allocation of the share repurchase offer conducted through the Independent Mechanism between August 27 and 31 under a book-building process.

The Share Repurchase Committee appointed by the company's Board of Directors determined that the cut-off price for common shares will be COP 21.900 per share, allowing the repurchase of 1.368.769 shares for a total amount of COP 29.976 billion. Likewise, it determined that the cut-off price for the preferred shares will be COP 16.500 per share, allowing the repurchase of 560.390 shares for a total amount of COP 9.246 billion. This outcome is consistent with Grupo Argos' disciplined approach to capital allocation, prioritizing opportunities where share repurchases represent an attractive capital allocation alternative relative to other potential uses of capital.

This offer is part of the execution of the third pillar of ACE 1.0, which contemplates deploying COP 500 billion in share repurchases over the next 6 to 12 months through both the transactional systems and the Independent Mechanism.

"The execution of ACE is based on allocating capital where we identify opportunities to generate returns significantly above our cost of capital. This transaction allowed us to repurchase, in a single operation, a volume equivalent to two-thirds of the amount repurchased during the year through the transactional systems, taking advantage of attractive conditions and demonstrating the flexibility provided by the Independent Mechanism. We will continue allocating capital to the alternative that offer the highest risk-adjusted returns and the greatest potential for value creation for our shareholders, in line with Grupo Argos' role as a capital allocator".

Felipe Aristizábal, CFO of Grupo Argos

The repurchase represents another step forward in ACE 1.0, with the objective of accelerating Grupo Argos' value generation, capture, and transfer, while contributing to the converge of the company's market price toward its fundamental value.

Grupo Argos Will continue evaluating market conditions and using the available mechanisms flexibly to advance its share repurchase program.
